E.P. CARRILLO

E.P. Carrillo Allegiance Sidekick Size 5 x 50

1,100/Stick 22,000/Box of 20

Usually, cigar brand owners go to Ernesto Perez-Carrillo to make their cigars.

If they're lucky, he says yes.

In this case, Perez-Carrillo went to Oliva Cigar Co. to make Allegiance, which is the fourth line in the Perez-Carrillo series—and the series has been nothing less than stellar.

La Historia (which was Part I in the series) has made it to the Top 25 list on more than one occasion. Encore (Part II) was named Cigar of the Year in 2018. Pledge (Part III) was named Cigar of the Year in 2020.

And now, Part IV has landed the No. 5 spot. The bands across the series are all the same pattern and design for continuity, but the colors are different in order to distinguish one blend from another.

The green band of Allegiance is meant to symbolize nature and tobacco. Other than the Ecuador Sumatra wrapper, the tobacco in this cigar is all Nicaraguan.

So, does this taste more like an Oliva cigar or an E.P. Carrillo cigar? We haven't decided.

What we do know is that it comes together brilliantly setting a sweet-and-spicy tone with a woody undercurrent, snappy bursts of gingerbread and charming accents of nutmeg and cinnamon before the peppery finish.

Diego Maradona Tribute Cigars The legendary Argentine football star, Diego Maradona, was an avid cigar aficionado. He picked up cigar smoking after visiting Cuba for medical treatments. Whilst there he became close friends with Fidel Castro and even had a tattoo of Che Guevara on his arm. Together with The Traveller Cigars, Maradona had planned to drop his own cigar range but didn't get to do so due to his unexpected death in November 2020. The Traveller Cigars have still chosen to release the cigars but as a tribute to the famous football player and cigar lover.

Maradona Tribute Robusto Limited to just 500 numbered boxes, The Maradona Tribute Robusto is a medium to full strength cigar made from tobaccos from Nicaragua's premier growing areas, Esteli, Jalapa and Condega, expertly paired with San Andres binder and lovingly wrapped in an Ecuadorian wrapper. Personally selected by the man himself, these unique cigars are perfect to enjoy whilst remembering the feats of one of the greatest footballers in the history of the sport. Throughout, the flavour profile gives earthy spice in abundance with the Cuban seed wrapper adding a wonderful complexity. Dark roast coffee and a rich peppery cedar crescendo towards the end. The artwork on the cigars carries Maradona's name and his number 10 with which he always played. The inside of the beautiful piano lacquered black boxes of 20 cigars also has his autograph and a note on the cigars.
